

Arrival of the President and His Attendants at Raleigh.

HIS RECEPTION—SPEECHES, &c., &c.

RALEIGH, N. C., June 3—P. M.

The President was met by the following named officers: State Treasurer Battle, Secretary of State Post, Comptroller Burgin, United States Marshal Goodloe, and also, by a committee of the City Council.

Mr. Battle, addressing the President, said:—Mr. President, in behalf of the people of North Carolina, it is my grateful privilege to welcome you to our State. Forty years ago, to our borders to battle with the difficulties and strive for the rewards of the great West. After being crowned with the most distinguished honors by Tennessee, the daughter of North Carolina, you have by the aid of the people of the United States reached the highest point to which human ambition can attain. We believe that you have, in your journey, used the same noble and generous spirit which has led you to the frontiers of the great West, and we believe that you will use the same noble and generous spirit in your journey to the frontiers of the great East.

On this your return to visit the scenes of your early days, we extend to you our cordial greeting as our President, our fellow-citizen and our friend.

The President replied:—I have no language adequate to express my feelings and emotions on this occasion. I shall not now recur to the scenes of my early life, for it has not been my intention or desire to make any general remarks on this tour, but simply to acknowledge and express my sincere thanks for the manifestations of the respect of my fellow-citizens. I acknowledge to you, sir, and to those whom you represent, my gratitude for the welcome which you have tendered to me on this tour. I have no doubt that I shall find in this tour a new field for my labors, and I shall be glad to have the opportunity to visit the scenes of my early life, and to have the opportunity to visit the scenes of my early life, and to have the opportunity to visit the scenes of my early life.

Mr. Battle then said:—Mr. Secretary of State and Mr. Post Master General, I am likewise commissioned to offer you a cordial welcome to our State. We earnestly hope that in your progress you will pass your time in the most pleasant manner, and that you will receive the most favorable impressions of our people and State.

Secretary Seward replied:—I can certainly say, for myself, for I do not undertake to speak for Mr. Post Master General Randall, that here, at the threshold of North Carolina, I find myself under a peculiar embarrassment. I find the Secretary of State of North Carolina, a man of high rank and high position, a man of high rank and high position, a man of high rank and high position.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes. The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes. The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

has rendered himself illustrious by his honest, earnest and unflinching adherence to the Constitution and the Union.

THE PRESIDENT'S RECEPTION—SPEECHES, &c., &c.

RALEIGH, N. C., June 3—P. M.

The President was greeted with applause and responded as follows:—Sir—Permit me, through you, to tender to those here present, and to the people of the State of North Carolina, my sincere thanks for the welcome tendered me on the occasion of my return to my native town. I confess that under the circumstances and the view of the situation, I have been made since I reached Raleigh, as well as on the way, I am impressed with emotions which language is wholly inadequate to express here in the language of another, and it is not worth while to attempt to improve upon it. Here in the city of Raleigh is where my infant eyes first saw the light of Heaven; here are the scenes of childhood; here is everything to bind me to the place, and to assist him with surrounding objects; here is where the tenderness of the heart has taken a firm hold upon everything to which it is attached. In making my entrance into this city to-day, my mind involuntarily wandered back to the time when I left my streets a penniless and inexperienced boy, to make my way in the world. As I approached, when looking back forty years ago, I felt as if I were returning here to-day. I began to inquire where those I left behind were in the language of poetry itself. The friends of childhood, where are they? Echo, answers where? Some have emigrated and gone to other lands; some have died; some have been made into a nation, and have passed to that undiscovered country from whose bourne no traveler returns.

Again, where are the friends of youth, where are they? There are the Haywards, Hunters and Smiths and Joneses; where are the long list of men who lived at that day, and who commanded respect for constancy to principles. Applause. Under these circumstances could I feel indifferent? I would be false to my nature if I forgot you, and not to indulge in self-adulation, I can say, I feel proud of the demonstration in my honor by the citizens of my native town.

"Remember there a man with soul no dead, who never to himself has said, with my own, my native land." Applause. This is not the time or occasion to discuss the political issues which disturb the public mind, but as allusion has been made to my first going out from among you, I may say that ever since I formed an opinion as to the fundamental principles of the government, I have adhered to them and to the Constitution, and to the flag of my country. Applause.

When I went out from among you, and from the time I became connected with politics, I laid down, as my rule, a conscientious performance of duty, and adopted the Constitution of my country as my guide. Applause. And by these, whether in prosperity or adversity, I have always been guided and controlled. I have never been swayed by high places or low places, with the Constitution as my guide, with my hand laid on the altar of my country, I will leave these great principles for those who are to follow. Applause. One of my leading tenets has been the prosperity of the great mass of the people, holding that persons, without regard to condition or color, should be esteemed according to intrinsic merit or worth, leaving each to rise on his own merit, courage and energy.

Let this be the standard by which we are to be judged. I have no doubt that I shall find in this tour a new field for my labors, and I shall be glad to have the opportunity to visit the scenes of my early life, and to have the opportunity to visit the scenes of my early life, and to have the opportunity to visit the scenes of my early life.

On this your return to visit the scenes of your early days, we extend to you our cordial greeting as our President, our fellow-citizen and our friend.

The President replied:—I have no language adequate to express my feelings and emotions on this occasion. I shall not now recur to the scenes of my early life, for it has not been my intention or desire to make any general remarks on this tour, but simply to acknowledge and express my sincere thanks for the manifestations of the respect of my fellow-citizens. I acknowledge to you, sir, and to those whom you represent, my gratitude for the welcome which you have tendered to me on this tour. I have no doubt that I shall find in this tour a new field for my labors, and I shall be glad to have the opportunity to visit the scenes of my early life, and to have the opportunity to visit the scenes of my early life, and to have the opportunity to visit the scenes of my early life.

Mr. Battle then said:—Mr. Secretary of State and Mr. Post Master General, I am likewise commissioned to offer you a cordial welcome to our State. We earnestly hope that in your progress you will pass your time in the most pleasant manner, and that you will receive the most favorable impressions of our people and State.

Secretary Seward replied:—I can certainly say, for myself, for I do not undertake to speak for Mr. Post Master General Randall, that here, at the threshold of North Carolina, I find myself under a peculiar embarrassment. I find the Secretary of State of North Carolina, a man of high rank and high position, a man of high rank and high position, a man of high rank and high position.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

The President, in company with Secretary Seward, walked through the streets of Raleigh, and the people of the party were escorted to the Capital building to-day by Governor North and Major General Sikes, a staff, and a number of prominent military officers and civilians, including the Mayor of Raleigh. The reception took place in the Hall of the House of Commons. The visitors, after saluting the President, were introduced severally to Secretary Seward, Post Master General Randall and General Sikes.

planned. The time will come when it will be asked not what wealth we gained and power we acquired, but beyond this will be the inquiry, is the world any better for your having been in it. The President loves the people because he is of the people. It is an honorable journey—he has made his holding in affection of the memory of his father—has left all the duties of his high office to pay a solemn tribute to the departed soul. Randall was applauded as he retired.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 3—P. M.

The debt bearing coin interest has increased six million four hundred and forty-one thousand dollars. The currency bearing interest has decreased forty-one million four hundred and twenty-three thousand dollars. Maturity of debt, not presented, decreased two millions two hundred and nineteen thousand dollars. That bearing no interest has increased three hundred and sixty-eight thousand dollars. Decrease in coin in the Treasury fifteen million four hundred and ninety-two thousand dollars. The currency bearing interest has decreased forty-one million four hundred and twenty-three thousand dollars. Maturity of debt, not presented, decreased two millions two hundred and nineteen thousand dollars. That bearing no interest has increased three hundred and sixty-eight thousand dollars. Decrease in coin in the Treasury fifteen million four hundred and ninety-two thousand dollars.

Secretary McCulloch has issued a circular regarding the lockout of silver, and authorizing the use of either of the five, namely: America, Robinson, Farrar, Mason and McCulloch—subject to the usual inspection regarding workmanship and quality of material.

It is officially announced that the Treasury Department is prepared to redeem compound interest notes, as they shall mature, by the payment of principal and interest on presentation to the Treasurer or either assistant of the Treasury, at New York, Philadelphia and Boston.

From New Hampshire.

CONCORD, N. H., June 3—P. M.

The Legislature was organized to-day. General Griffin was elected Speaker of the House, and Wm. T. Park President of the Senate.

From New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, June 3—P. M.

General Longwell publishes a letter this morning in the Republican, containing the following paragraph:—"The military bill and amendments are peace offerings, and we should accept them as such, and place ourselves upon them as the starting point from which to treat future political issues as they arise."

Governor Wells published a letter, addressed to the President, protesting against his removal, and also another very similar one addressed to General Sheridan, in which he says there is not a word of truth in the charge that he has impeded the execution of the laws of Congress.

Alabama Republican State Convention.

MONTGOMERY, June 3—P. M.

The Republican Convention of this State adjourned today after having passed resolutions similar to those passed by Conventions in other Southern States, in regard to reconstruction.

From Charleston.

CHARLESTON, S. C., June 3—P. M.

Considerable excitement prevails in this community, owing to recent orders of Gen. Sikes, interfering in municipal affairs. During the last two days city stock has fallen from 15 to 10 percent. The Board of Trade has passed resolutions deprecating some of the provisions of Order No. 32, as injurious to the prosperity of the city, and appointing a committee to confer with General Sikes in relation thereto.

From New York.

NEW YORK, June 3—P. M.

The wife of Hon. D. M. Barringer, of North Carolina, died here yesterday.

Markets.

NEW YORK, June 3—P. M.

Cotton firm—sales of 1,800 bales, at 27 1/2 cts. Flour heavy; State $9 1/2 to 10; Southern $11 1/2 to 12 1/2. Corn heavy; mixed new, 11 1/2 to 12 1/2. Old 11 1/2 to 12 1/2. Meal, heavy and closing at $22.90. Lard heavy. Rice, Sugar and Coffee steady. Naval Stores heavy; Spirit Turpentine 60 to 61 cts; Rosin 45 to 46 cts. Freighters firm. Stocks dull. Money 7 1/2 cts. Gold 139 1/2. Futures, twentys, Coupons, of 64, 100 to 110.

BALTIMORE, June 3—P. M.

Cotton quiet and steady at 28 cts. Rice Coffee dull at 17 to 19 cts in gold, for American. Flour dull; Howard street, extra $12 1/2 to 13; yellow declined 1/2 cts; white $11 1/2 to 12; yellow 11 1/2 to 12; Western mixed 11 1/2. Sugar dull and steady. Provisions unchanged. Whiskey in bond, 23 to 24 1/2 cts.

SAVANNAH, GA., June 3—P. M.

Cotton quiet but firm—middlings 26 cts.—Sales 230 bales. Receipts 675 bales.

CONCESSIONS, June 3—P. M.

Flour and Corn dull and nominal. Whiskey dull. Meal, heavy and closing at $22.90. Lard dull and nominal. Whiskey 72 cts.

NEW ORLEANS, June 3—P. M.

Cotton firm and unchanged—sales of 1,800 bales; low middling 25 1/2 cts. Receipts 622 bales. Exports 5,100 bales. Associated stock taken by actual count 55,233 bales. There are no sales or quotations in Sugar and Molasses. Flour very quiet with no settled prices—superfine 81 1/2 cts; choice extra 87 1/2 to 88 cts. Corn dull and unchanged—yellow mixed 11 1/2 to 12; white 11 1/2 to 12. Coffee unchanged. Bacon shoulders are very scarce at 10 cts; Rib 12 cts; clear 13. Lard steady and firm—in tins 13 to 14 cts; keg 14 to 15 cts. Pork dull at 24 1/2 cts. Gold 136.

ST. LOUIS, June 3—P. M.

Cotton dull at 24 cts for Middling. Flour dull and declined 24 cts. Corn declined 3/4 cts. Provisions steady and unchanged. Lard dull and nominal. Whiskey 72 cts.

NEW ORLEANS, June 3—P. M.

Cotton firm and unchanged—sales of 1,800 bales; low middling 25 1/2 cts. Receipts 622 bales. Exports 5,100 bales. Associated stock taken by actual count 55,233 bales. There are no sales or quotations in Sugar and Molasses. Flour very quiet with no settled prices—superfine 81 1/2 cts; choice extra 87 1/2 to 88 cts. Corn dull and unchanged—yellow mixed 11 1/2 to 12; white 11 1/2 to 12. Coffee unchanged. Bacon shoulders are very scarce at 10 cts; Rib 12 cts; clear 13. Lard steady and firm—in tins 13 to 14 cts; keg 14 to 15 cts. Pork dull at 24 1/2 cts. Gold 136.

ST. LOUIS, June 3—P. M.

Cotton dull at 24 cts for Middling. Flour dull and declined 24 cts. Corn declined 3/4 cts. Provisions steady and unchanged. Lard dull and nominal. Whiskey 72 cts.

NEW ORLEANS, June 3—P. M.

Cotton firm and unchanged—sales of 1,800 bales; low middling 25 1/2 cts. Receipts 622 bales. Exports 5,100 bales. Associated stock taken by actual count 55,233 bales. There are no sales or quotations in Sugar and Molasses. Flour very quiet with no settled prices—superfine 81 1/2 cts; choice extra 87 1/2 to 88 cts. Corn dull and unchanged—yellow mixed 11 1/2 to 12; white 11 1/2 to 12. Coffee unchanged. Bacon shoulders are very scarce at 10 cts; Rib 12 cts; clear 13. Lard steady and firm—in tins 13 to 14 cts; keg 14 to 15 cts. Pork dull at 24 1/2 cts. Gold 136.

ST. LOUIS, June 3—P. M.

Cotton dull at 24 cts for Middling. Flour dull and declined 24 cts. Corn declined 3/4 cts. Provisions steady and unchanged. Lard dull and nominal. Whiskey 72 cts.

NEW ORLEANS, June 3—P. M.

Wing of the Republican party, held a meeting at the Standard office to-day, and requested Republicans throughout the State to hold primary meetings in every county to elect delegates to the general State convention to assemble in this city on the first Wednesday in September next.

Chief Justice Chase is receiving members of the bar in the city. He has created a favorable impression. The utmost cordiality prevails.

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 3—P. M.

The debt bearing coin interest has increased six million four hundred and forty-one thousand dollars. The currency bearing interest has decreased forty-one million four hundred and twenty-three thousand dollars. Maturity of debt, not presented, decreased two millions two hundred and nineteen thousand dollars. That bearing no interest has increased three hundred and sixty-eight thousand dollars. Decrease in coin in the Treasury fifteen million four hundred and ninety-two thousand dollars.

Secretary McCulloch has issued a circular regarding the lockout of silver, and authorizing the use of either of the five, namely: America, Robinson, Farrar, Mason and McCulloch—subject to the usual inspection regarding workmanship and quality of material.

It is officially announced that the Treasury Department is prepared to redeem compound interest notes, as they shall mature, by the payment of principal and interest on presentation to the Treasurer or either assistant of the Treasury, at New York, Philadelphia and Boston.

From New Hampshire.